

Performance Deteriorates On CMBS Due To Maturities

Mortgage Daily

Nov. 21, 2016

A wave of securitized commercial real estate loans made during better times a decade ago are driving up delinquency.

Thirty-day delinquency on loans contained in commercial mortgage-backed securities finished October at 3.03 percent.

The past-due rate on securitized CRE loans deteriorated compared to one month earlier, when it landed at 2.90 percent.

To read the full article, please click the link below:

Performance Deteriorates On CMBS Due To Maturities