

Traditional Grocery Stores Can Benefit From Growing E-Commerce

Commercial Observer — Steve Jellinek

May 18, 2018

Over the past 10 years, thin margins, fierce competition and a glut of space have shrunk traditional grocers' market share. As a result, we've seen many lenders and investors shy away from grocery-anchored shopping centers. As the landscape shifts, we expect more industry consolidation, with large-format stores getting bigger and small-format stores becoming more specialized. Meanwhile, more consumers are buying groceries online than ever before.

To read the full article, please click the link below:

Traditional Grocery Stores Can Benefit From Growing E-Commerce