

Retail Malls Continue To Falter Across The Country

Realty Biz News – Brian Kline

Oct. 14, 2016

A recent report by <http://www.morningstar.com/> demonstrates that retail malls across the country continue declining in sales as the retail landscape permanently changes. Among the property types backing securitized commercial mortgages, retail is the second-most common after multifamily (very healthy), and in that retail category, some $48.60 billion in loans are backed by regional malls, from well-known behemoths such as the Mall of America to smaller counterparts in out-of-the-way markets.

To read the full article, please click the link below:

Retail Malls Continue To Falter Across The Country